him by his kindness and sympathies for the sick and suffering in camp. He was an untiring worker and labored day and night for the good of his men, and they loved him like a father.

As a man he possessed a noble spirit, was high-minded and generous—candid open and free in the expression of his sentiments, having an unusual share of moral courage, was very jealous of his good standing with his friends and brethren. He was also a man of great fortitude and firmness, and met with calm determination every untoward event of his life, both temporal and religious. As a father he was the idol of his children. But he was also a Christian, he professed religion and joined the Baptist Church of Christ and was baptized by Elder Jesse Wood at Cedarburg, Ga. about 10 years ago. As a church member he was pious, prayerful and orderly. He was a lover of the household of God. He enjoyed that doctrine most, which gave the most honor to God in the salvation of sinners.

He exemplified his Christian character in camp, by the regular reading of his bible, and by avoiding all immoralities, frequently reproving others for wickedness, especially professors of religion. The writer of this sketch knew him well and it gives him great pleasure to bear testimony to the rectitude of his deportment in the army, and I record the fact here, that I never heard him use a profane word or impious expression while in the army. After he was wounded and before he died, he called up his company before him, and told them that they had acted bravely in defending their country's capital against a well organized army, and that some of their comrades in arms, in their own ranks, had been sacrificed on the altar of their country, and that he had received a wound from which he would soon die, and he was willing to die, that he had long since made his peace with God, and he was willing to die, that he had a request to make of them, that was that they all might meet him in Heaven, he feared some of them was not prepared to die. It is said by some of those who stood by, that all died there freely, and he thus died in full prospect of a world where wars will be known no more. He leaves a devoted wife, two little sons, and a large circle of friends to mourn his irreparable loss, but their loss is his eternal gain, for he rests where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.

"Let Me die with it in My Hand."

Another of Alabama's sons has fallen. It is mournful to know and record the fact. But there is a solace. He died on the field of battle, died valiantly, defending the most sacred right of man, died with all the energies of his noble nature in action—to vindicate his country's honor—he died like a soldier. Well may our country be proud of her youthful hero. I allude to MAJOR GEO. JER. ALEXANDER, Jr., who fell at the battle of Baton Rouge on the 5th ult. Maj. Alexander was born in this country, but was a resident of Florida at the commencement of hostilities between the North and South. He was among the first to offer his services to his country in a Florida company. While at Pensacola, he was permitted by transfer to join the 7th Ala. Regiment, stationed at that place. This regt. was soon after ordered to East Tennessee, to protect that section from the depredations of the Unionists, thence to Bowling Green, as a part of Hardee's brigade. After the expiration of his time of enlistment (twelve months), young Alexander re-enlisted in the 4th Ala. Battalion. He was soon commissioned Adjut. of the Batt., and for distinguished services in the battle of Shiloh, was by acclamation elected Major.

For his heroic bearing at the battle of Baton Rouge, an eye witness on the battle-field writes:

"All who speak of the 4th Alabama Battalion, speak only to praise; they are the admiration of all. Faithfully did they emulate the example of their brothers in Virginia and elsewhere. It was in this gallant charge that one of the most fearless and patriotic sons of Alabama fell, I mean Major G. J. ALEXANDER. While enthusiastically cheering the men on to victory, a fatal ball pierced his heroic breast and he fell to rise no more. While being borne from the field before death's chilly corse had bound his gallant spirit, he was asked to release his sword, which he still held in his hand, when he replied, 'let me die with it in my hand.' But now he sleeps the sleep of the brave—'the bravest of the brave.'"

So passes away many of our gallant young men—on every battlefield they are scattering their devotion to their native South, with their life's best blood.

The subject of this notice was the son of George Lee Alexander, Esq., of this County, upon whom the fortunes of war have thus far fallen heavily. One of his sons was killed in the battles near Richmond, one at the battle of Baton Rouge, and his youngest son was taken prisoner at Island 10, from whom he has not since heard a single word. F.

DIED—Near Beane Station, East Tennessee, at the residence of Dr. Legg July 20, John F. Doudel in the 19th year of his age. The deceased was born and raised in Calhoun county. He could not resist the call of his country, but went to her defense. He was a member of Capt. Francis' company, 30th Ala. He was a good and noble soldier, beloved by all his friends. The Confederacy has lost one of her noble defenders, his widowed mother a kind and obedient son—he leaves a mother, three brothers and one sister to mourn his loss. But our loss is his eternal gain, he fell at his post—from evidence he left behind, we believe he is at home in Heaven, there to sing God's praises forever. His father provided him but a few weeks to that celestial land. Then friends weep not he is gone, where the carcasses rear, is hushed and the carnage of war is ended—heated as a faithful soldier should die, true to the last.

Thos. S. Finch was born in Spartanburg District, S. C., and emigrated from there to Calhoun County Ala., in 1853 and entered the Confederate army, a member of "Capt. Francis' company" from this county some time about the first of March last.

He was admitted into the hospital at Beane Station, East Tennessee, about the first of July, and died Thursday, July the 17th, at 6 o'clock A. M.

In a letter written by his brother James to his parents he says, "he did not suffer much for the first two weeks, only at times with his legs, though after the fever took hold of him, and quinine was given, he was partially deranged for some days. The hemorrhage of the bowels lasted him 24 hours up to the time of his death. I am sorry to add that circumstances were such that I did not have the privilege of attending to him all the time he was in the hospital, but I was with him about 24 hours before his death, during which time he was in possession of his right mind and was engaged in fervent prayer to God for mercy in the time of need, saying that he could not be willing to die without doing so as long as there was hope."

A short time before his death he gave up all, and requested his brother to tell his friends good-bye, and request them to make preparation for death. This another of our faithful soldiers has gone to his long home, leaving father, mother, brothers and sisters and a loving wife to whom he had not long been married, to mourn his loss.

The name of Thos. Finch will be long remembered by those who love their country, and the cause of freedom. But now he sleeps in the silence of the tomb—free from the fatiguing labors of camp life.

At a Regular Communication of Bethel Lodge No. 141, the following tribute of respect was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The great Architect of the Universe, has called our much esteemed Bro. Wm. P. Smith, from an earthly temple, to that temple above, not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens, be it therefore Resolved, That we take this method of expressing our great grief, of the death of our friend and Bro. William P. Smith.

Resolved, That in the death of Brother William P. Smith, this lodge has lost a devoted member who was highly esteemed by the fraternity, and the vicinity in which he lived a good citizen.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathies to the wife and relatives of our deceased Bro.

Resolved, That we wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, and a copy handed to relatives of the deceased, and a copy forwarded to the Jacksonville Republican for publication.

Gallatin—Gen. Johnson Paroled.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Wednesday, Aug. 27

—Gen. R. W. Johnson, Capt. Turner, of his staff and Capt. Libbon, of the second Indiana Cavalry, arrived here today.

They state that Gen. Johnson was compelled to surrender, near Gallatin, on the 21st inst., because his force, numbering about 700, after fighting bravely for some time, became unmanageable, and finally ran, with the exception of about 75, who, with Gen. Johnson, Major Winfrey, of the 5th Infantry, and three officers, were taken prisoners.

The national loss was twenty-six killed, including Lieut. Wynkoop of the 7th Pennsylvania Cavalry, and two officers, and thirty-three killed and forty wounded.

The national prisoners were all treated by the guerrilla Morgan, and liberated on parole.

The following despatch which has been handed us, just as our paper was going to press, conveys the sad intelligence of the death of the gallant Capt. Thomas Bush, commander of the Calhoun Sharpshooters.

Richmond, Sep. 13, 1862.

To Wm. F. Dean, Jacksonville, Ala. Capt. Thomas Bush, was wounded at Manassas on Saturday in the hip, died the 5th day. G. J. CLARK.

We are again indebted to prompt and polite attention of Dr. C. J. Clark, of Richmond, for the following dispatch received on Thursday night. It conveys sad news to some of our citizens, upon whom the fortunes of war have fallen heavily. J. Harris, mentioned in the dispatch is the son of our fellow citizen Warren Harris, and is the same who was so severely and painfully wounded in the neck at the battle of Drainsville, but who, with irrepressible patriotism rushed again to arms, so soon as his condition would possibly allow.

N Littlejohn is the son of our fellow citizen, Absalom Littlejohn, who had two sons in the 16th Regt., William and Neil, or Cornelius. Wm. was severely wounded in the leg in the battles before Richmond, and is now at home, still suffering severely, and we are sorry to say, recovering very slowly from his wound, and now the sad news reached him that his remaining son was killed at the second battle of Manassas.

R. James, was a member of Capt. Woodruff's company from Alexandria. Dr. Dickie, reported as seriously wounded, was a member of Co. "D," and a citizen of Alexandria, and we hope may soon recover and his useful life be spared.

Richmond, Sept. 10.

J. Harris and N. Littlejohn, company G, and R James, company D, were killed at Manassas.

Capt. Martin, company B, and Dr. Dickie, company D, were seriously wounded. Others slightly.

RIVER DEFENCE.

We are glad to see the subject of timely preparation for river defences advocated by Southern papers. They urge the people in the vicinity of bluffs and defensible points, to go to work, without waiting for the action of the General Government, which has its hands full in the important operations in other parts of the field. The Yankees will no doubt make a desperate effort in the Fall and Winter upon Charleston, Savannah, Wilmington, Mobile and other points, and endeavor to push their advantages by gunboats, up the rivers to the interior of the Cotton States, in revenge for the unbroken chain of their disastrous defeats this summer.

It is the part of wisdom to prepare for them, and as far as possible frustrate their designs by obstructions and the erection of batteries, at defensible points. The example of Vicksburg shows the great advantage of high bluffs for defence against gunboats. Are there not places on the Alabama and other rivers, where the boat channel runs near in shore, and where if there are not natural bluffs, strong artificial elevations for cannon could be erected of logs or rocks?

The Next Legislature—Stay Laws.

Experience has proven to every intelligent and reflecting man, that the Stay Laws passed by the Legislatures of the Southern States at the commencement of this war, except in so far as they protected the interests of absent soldiers, were the greatest blunders ever committed. We hope that among the first acts of the approaching Legislature will be to amend them so as only to embrace those absent in the army. In the times of war, no one will venture the investment of money in internal improvements or manufactures; and these stay laws, by doing away with the collection of debts, consequently left no use for money, except to be invested in groceries, provisions and articles of clothing. They have thus been, unintentionally, at least in a great degree, the parent cause of monopoly and high prices. In times of war, money, such as it is, shipplasters and all, is necessarily plenty, in consequence of the large amounts paid out to officers, contractors, soldiers for supplies, transportation, &c. It is not so much that articles of prime necessity are scarce and high, as that money is plenty and cheap. If a man has a sack of coffee, salt, corn or wheat, he is in no hurry to exchange them for money, because the probability is that money will become more plenty and cheap, while these articles will become more scarce and high. But let him be pressed by debts which nothing but money will pay, and he will gladly exchange them, sooner than risk the sacrifice of property. Many other arguments for the repeal of Stay Laws might be added, but we deem them unnecessary. The truth is, instead of diminishing the uses for money, in time of war, the true policy is for the Legislature to create as many real and artificial channels for its use as possible.

Prepare to Assist the Needy.

The recent extension of the Conscription to forty-five, will abstract from such counties as Calhoun, a large additional amount of white labor, upon which indigent families have been heretofore totally dependent, and provisions have still gone up in price. Experience has proven that the tax levied last year was inadequate to the necessities even then existing. The wife or child of no man who is fighting in the glorious Southern army ought to be suffered to want. Providence has blessed us with plenty if properly distributed. We hope the next Legislature may not be afraid to levy a tax, if necessary, ten-fold greater than the last. Let the gallant deeds of our noble and patriotic army, and the grand and signal victories with which Providence has blessed our arms, soften and enlarge every heart. The people can make no more sincere and acceptable sacrifice to God for his blessings, than by alleviating the sufferings and relieving the necessities of each other.

We were pained to learn, from a soldier of Capt. Lee's company, who was wounded in the Cedar Run battle, and who passed through here last week, that Capt. Moses Lee, of this county, was killed at the battle of Manassas, shot through the heart.

Capt. Lee, emigrated to this county from South Carolina some years ago, although considerably over the age for military service, was among the first to volunteer; he joined Capt. Draper's first company of 12 months' men, and was elected Lieut. When the time was out, he came home, and immediately raised another company for the war, of which he was elected Captain. In every trial or emergency he sustained himself most nobly, and was said by the Colonel of his Regiment to be "brave as Julius Caesar." Calhoun County and his native State has lost no more true or gallant son.

By a letter to W. Hubbard, we learn further that C. C. Phillips and J. H. McKinney were killed. Brown and Matthews were wounded—the 48th Regt. was badly cut up on 30th in charging a battery—Capt. Lee had been setting two weeks. Lieut. Col. J. B. Hubbard, was led in the action by Lt. J. B. Hubbard.

Indian Massacres in Minnesota.

From the latest accounts it appears that the Indian depredations were continued with unabated fury in Minnesota, and other portions of the Northwest. This seems but a righteous retribution of Providence upon the citizens of this far-off State, who have sent forward their soldiers with such alacrity to the work of pillage, massacre and devastation of the South.

We are informed that Elizabeth Morrison, living near Oakluskay, Randolph Co., has five sons and thirty grandsons in the Confederate army. She is now 85 years old. There are few probably who have so many sons and grandsons in the army.

Deceased Soldier's Claims.

The attention of those interested, is respectfully invited to the advertisement of Mr. Edward M. Clark, of Richmond, Va., who proposes to attend to the collection of claims due deceased soldiers. From his testimonials, and information we have by private letters, we doubt not he will attend to all business entrusted to him, with accuracy and despatch.

"Hermes," the Richmond correspondent of the Charleston Mercury, in his letter of the 5th inst says:

"A gentleman just from Indiana, reached the city a day or two ago. He reports the people of his State willing, nay anxious for the restoration on any term the South may dictate; but rather than consent to a final separation they will make war on us still. He thinks they would gladly part with New England, if they could get back the South.

Richmond, Virginia.

Sept. 10th 1862.

Mr. J. F. Grant.

DEAR SIR:

Through a letter from a member of Captain Whately's company and a young Mr. Orr of Capt. Cook's company I have obtained some further news from the Tenth Ala. Regt. Through the letter I learn, for the first time of the death of our young friends Jesse Harris and Cornelius Littlejohn, and the wounding of Dr. Dickie of Alexandria. Poor boys! After going through many privations, hardships and dangers, and facing death with heroic fortitude in the camp, and in the battle field they fell at last; on the bloody plains of Manassas, where many a gallant Southern lad laid down his life in the cause of Southern liberty. Thus two other families in our community have laid their offering on the altar, and are clothed in mourning; whether victorious or not, we shall have a generation of broken hearts and sad memories.

Wilcox's Brigade, consisting of the 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th Ala. Regts., was held in reserve and moved forward close in the rear of another Brigade that was hotly engaged with the enemy for hours they were exposed to a fire of shot and shell, in this most trying position to the patience and courage of a soldier, some sixty or more persons were wounded in the Brigade, mostly with fragments of shell. Capt. Alberto Martin of Co. B, received a serious wound in the thigh, the fragment of a shell passing through the muscles. Dr. Dickie was wounded on the head by a piece of shell. A good many members of the Regiment received slight injuries. The explosions of shells and hurdling of shot around them is described as terrific; besides the two above mentioned, a young man by the name of Rowland Jones (or Jones) was killed dead on the field. Capt. Whately had joined the Regiment and was in the fight. The last news I have the Regiment was at Leesburg, and would cross into Maryland within a few hours. I am aware of the anxiety of the people at home to hear from their friends—and I have telegraphed and written all I have learned, without delay. I have been assured that there was no one seriously hurt in the Regiment but those I have mentioned.

None of the wounded have been sent to Richmond—they remain at Warrenton, Aldie, and other places in the vicinity. We shall despatch an agent tomorrow, to carry up clothing and money to supply the wants of the Alabamians. We could get no transportation earlier. Many of the wounded are destitute of a change of clothing, having lost or been compelled to throw away their knapsacks. For some days before the battles during their rapid movements our army subsisted on scant rations, some times on roasting ears and apples. An army that can march, and live and fight as ours has done, commanded by such leaders, and impelled by such motives, can hardly be whipped.

Yours truly,

C. J. CLARK,

Surgeon in charge Ala. Hospitals

CAMP BELTON, near Athens, TENN.

HEADQRS. 2d ALABAMA CAVALRY.

August 12th, 1862.

Mr. J. F. Grant Sir—I take this method of announcing myself a candidate for Solicitor for the Circuit composed of the counties of Blount, Marshall, Madison, Jackson, DeKalb, and Cherokee. I do so for two reasons:

First—I am but partially known to the members of the General Assembly of Alabama.

Second—I am here in the C. S. Service and expect to remain until the war is ended, and shall have no opportunity to urge my claims personally before any members of the Legislature.

In reference to my politics, I have ever been a Democrat of the State rights school. I supported and advocated the Hon. J. C. Breckinridge, was run on the Secession ticket in my county for a seat in the Convention which passed the ordinance of Secession and was defeated by the Union candidates, since the war commenced, I have been in the ranks except a short time, during my discharge from service on account of disability.

I leave my claims in the hands of my friends and hope that they will do me justice in my absence, I am for fighting Lincoln as long as we can muster a man, or furnish a dollar.

Very respectfully,

BATTLE OF MANASSAS NO. 2.

REVISED AND IMPROVED EDITION.

Another Brilliant Victory—Enemy Routed at all Points—Heavy Loss—Bartow and Bee Avenged, &c.

BATTLE FIELD OF MANASSAS, Aug. 31. Another great battle has been fought on the bloody Plains of Manassas, and our more has been crowned our banners with the laurel of victory. The conflict opened Friday afternoon, and last night not a Federal soldier remained on the South side of Bull Run, except the prisoners we had taken; and those who slept the sleep that shall know no waking until the great day of Judgment. The people of the Confed-rate States—those at home no less than the invincible heroes in the field, and the friends of justice and the lovers of liberty everywhere—assuredly have cause for rejoicing and thanksgiving. Never since Adam was planted in the garden of Eden, did a holier cause engage the hearts and arms of any nation; and never did any people establish more clearly their right to be free men.

I did not arrive in time to witness the battle of Friday, the 29th. Leaving Gordonsville at 9 o'clock that day, on a freight train, I reached Rapidan Station, the present terminus of the railroad, at noon. There I took horse, forded the river; struck for the Rappahannock—forded that river also—got to Warrenton at one o'clock yesterday—rested my horse, and then took the turnpike for the battle-field, fourteen miles distant where I arrived in one hour and fifteen minutes. As I just in time to witness, for the second time, the triumph of Confederate arms on these ever memorable plains.

I cannot undertake to give the number of men engaged on either side. It is not probable, however, that the enemy had more than 75,000 troops on the field. Our own forces were considerably less, a large part of the army not having arrived in time to participate in the fight. Longstreet's corps d'armee held the right, A. P. Hill's and Anderson's (late Huger's) divisions the centre, and Jackson's veterans the left. Jackson was the first to reach the plains below the Blue Ridge; Hill came next, and then Longstreet, who entered at Thoroughton Gap. The enemy occupied the Gap with a full division, and seemed disposed to dispute the passage of our troops; but Tomb's and Anderson's Georgia brigades, which led the corps, made a bold dash and soon drove them away with but little loss. That was on Thursday, the 28th. Jackson had brought the enemy to bay between Gainesville and Groveton, two miles from the old battle-field, on the Warrenton turnpike. Knowing this, Longstreet pressed forward, and succeeded in getting into position on the right of the turnpike, in time to hold that part of our lines while Jackson engaged the enemy on the left.

It should have been stated that Longstreet played the enemy a clever trick before he left the South bank of the Rappahannock. Jackson and Hill having moved around by Sperryville above, he made feints at several fords on the Rappahannock as if he would cross over, and thus drew the attention of the enemy to those points, whilst he put his forces in motion and marched rapidly to the northward and around to Gainesville. So successful was the manoeuvre that a late Northern paper now before me congratulates its readers upon the brilliant victory achieved by the Federals in driving us away from the fords!

The enemy advanced to the attack on Friday. He was probably aware of Jackson's comparative weakness. He soon discovered, however, that a heavy Confederate column (Longstreet's) had immediately commenced a retrograde movement. The battle, which was hotly contested for a time, in which the artillery took a prominent part, continued through the afternoon, and resulted in the repulse of the enemy along the entire line. Jackson's forces were chiefly engaged, and behaved with their usual gallantry. The scene of the conflict was just in front of Gainesville and on the left of the Warrenton turnpike as you look towards Washington.

The enemy were driven back to the edge of the old battlefield of Manassas. The Confederates slept on the field, and there awaited a renewal of the attack on yesterday. They were not disappointed, for the enemy again advanced against our left at 2 o'clock, P. M., and engaged Jackson first. By three the engagement became general, and the battle was joined. Gen. Lee was in command, having come to the front some days ago. But a word of explanation in regard to the field and the position of the combatants.

The Warrenton and Alexandria Turnpike runs nearly Eastward, and the road from Sudley Ford on Bull Run to Manassas Junction North and South. These highways intersect each other in the centre of the old battle ground. Advancing down the turnpike, our forces faced to the East and in the direction of Washington, while the enemy faced to the West, but not exactly towards Richmond. The line of battle, three miles in length, extended across the turnpike almost at right angles and nearly parallel with and just West of the Sudley road. The battle of Manassas was to be fought over, and the point to be decided was, whether we should advance upon Washington or the enemy upon Richmond. This was the issue, and this the battle ground.

We learn from prisoners that Halleck, McClellan and Pope were present. McClellan had brought up his old United States Regulars, eighteen regiments, under Fitz John Porter, Heintzelman's division, and other corps of his James river army. It was evident that the enemy were confident of victory. They were aware of Jackson's weakness, and of the fact that not more than half of our army had come up; and by precipitating the battle they hoped to avenge their shameful defeat on the same ground a little more than one year ago. Indeed we hear that McDowell, the most civilized officer in the Yankee army, and the commander at Manassas last year, made an urgent appeal to his troops to wipe out the disgrace which then befell their arms, and never to leave the field but as conquerors.

As I have already stated, the enemy opened the battle by an attack upon our left. A heavy column with a full complement of artillery, was launched against Jackson's veterans, but there as elsewhere, they encountered a "Stone wall" as immovable as the Blue Ridge. The onslaught would have been fearful to any other than Confederate troops struggling for the dearest rights known to man. The attack was repulsed, however, and the enemy forced to retire.

In the meantime, a heavy force was moved up against A. P. Hill, and Anderson in the centre, and Longstreet's splendid corps on the right. The attack upon the centre was not characterized by much vigor, but on the right it was made by McClellan's Regulars, and was furious. After the first movement against the left was repulsed, Jackson found but little difficulty in advancing his lines. The infantry were very reluctant to engage the staid chieftain again, and their artillery alone resisted him with spirit. But on the right the conflict raged with great violence for more than an hour before we had made any impression upon the serried ranks of the Regulars. When they did yield, it was slowly and in good order. It could hardly be called a retreat; as we pushed them as it were from one elevation to another, gradually following them up and firmly holding the ground they had been forced to abandon.

In this way the contest continued until near sunset, the retrograde movement of the enemy growing more rapid and less orderly as the battle proceeded. Jackson pressed forward vigorously on the left; Hill and Anderson did the same in the centre, and as the foe retired faster in that part of the field than on the right, our line finally assumed somewhat the form of a crescent.

Jackson at length bent his line around by the Sudley road, near the church of that name, and about the same time the centre and right reached the old battle-ground. Then followed as splendid fighting on the part of the Confederates as the world ever saw. As the fact broke upon them that they again stood upon that glorious field, and that the enemy sought a renewal of the decision rendered there one year ago, they swept on as if they were borne onward by the fiat of fate. The eye grew braver, the arm waxed stronger, and catching the inspiration of the place, and of the children of glory who sleep upon its hills, they went up shout after shout, that rose high above the mighty din and uproar, and sounded in the ear of the already retreating foe like a sentence of judgment.

About the same time Gen. Tomb's who had been absent under orders, reared the field at the top of his horse's speed. His appearance was greeted with the cheers of ten thousand Georgians in Longstreet's corps. The shouts were caught up along the valley and over the hills as his splendid form swept across the field in the direction of his brigade. He found it at last and led it immediately forward into the thickest of the fight. Dashing down a hill not far from where Bee and Bartow both fell, he cut a terrible swath.

Brigade, which saluted him and his men with a terrific fire. The men called upon him to dismount, otherwise he would certainly be killed. His only reply, uttered in trumpet tones was: "President Davis can create Generals; God alone makes the soldier—ON!"

Finally our entire line crossed the Sudley road, and swept past the stone house at the intersection of the roads, the Hurry and Lewis Houses on the right on towards Bull Run. But the enemy managed his artillery with great skill and judgment. His firing was superb, and I must admit superior to our own. His batteries were posted at commanding points, and enabled him to cover the retreat of his infantry, by delaying our advance. Night, too, came to his rescue, and to nature and not his own arms was he indebted for his escape from utter destruction. The pursuit was kept up until darkness prevented further effort, and the order to halt was given.

The enemy escaped across Bull Run during the night, and morning found him in a hurried retreat for the second time over the same road and from the same battle field back to Washington. Thus the issue has been decided for the second time in our favor, and the judgment of July 1861, stands affirmed before the world. The battle of Manassas has been fought over, and a gracious God and our own right arms have given us the victory.

Gen. Stuart advanced to Centreville and beyond this morning, but saw nothing of the enemy, except the stragglers who were waiting to be taken.

It is too early to enter into details either as the part performed by individuals or the extent of the victory. Gen.

Drayton was not entirely successful in bringing his excellent brigade into action at the time, but otherwise it was a complete success. Every officer and man from Gen. Lee down to the humblest private, with exceptions too unimportant to justify particular notes, performed his whole duty. But our triumph, however, has been purchased at the cost of much precious blood. Our loss has been heavy; not less, I fear, than six or seven thousand. The casualties of the enemy, including killed, wounded and probably fifteen hundred or two thousand prisoners, will not fall much short of ten or twelve thousand men.

The strategy of the enemy was clever and deserves attention. He had attacked Jackson on Friday, and was repulsed—He renewed the attack yesterday, and thus sought to create the belief that his chief object was to turn our left. Having, as he supposed, produced this impression upon Gen. Lee, he suddenly precipitated upon our right, a very heavy force, including the old United States Regulars and other picked troops, under Fitz John Porter and Heintzelman. His object doubtless was to turn our right, throw us back against the Blue Ridge, keep open his communication by the Alexandria and Orange railway, and with Fredericksburg and his gunboats to the South, cut us off from the base of our supplies. The conception was excellent, but the execution was faulty.

Bee, Bartow and others who fell on this field last year, have been amply revenged. The shaft erected over the spot where Bartow perished has been removed by the vandals, but the ground around the place is marked by the Federal dead. The Henry house, which was riddled by the artillery shot of the enemy last year, and where its aged owner, Mrs. Henry, was killed, has also been removed piecemeal by the enemy, and probably sold as relics; but before its doors, and within its demolished walls, sleep two of the miserable martyrs of the North.

Batteries were planted and captured yesterday, where they were planted and captured last year. The pine thicket where the Fourth Alabama and Eighth Georgia suffered so terribly in the first battle is now strewn with the skin of the invader. We charged through the same woods yesterday, though from a different point, where Kirby Smith, the Blucher of the day, entered the fight before. These are remarkable coincidences and extend even to my own experience. In the road way where I relieved a wounded Irishman from Wisconsin late at night last year, I to-day found another Irishman crying for succor. As I rendered it to the first, so I gave it to the second.

Is not the hand of God in all this? Who but he brought us again face to face with our enemies upon these crimsoned plains, and gave us the victory? When before did the same people ever fight two battles upon the same ground, within so short a period? For the second time the God of battles has spoken by the mouth of our canon, and told the North to let us go unto ourselves. Will that ill-starred people require him to repeat the command after the manner of Pharaoh and the purblind Egyptians? We shall see.

The Surrender of Cincinnati Demanded.

Yankee Accounts of Operations in Virginia.

via Mobile, Sept. 9.

The Memphis Argus of the 7th contains the following:

Boat "B" arrived last evening about 4 o'clock from Cairo. A gentleman on board had a copy of an extra just issued from the Gazette office, at Cairo, previous to the departure of the "B," which states substantially as follows:

On Thursday morning the Federal forces at Covington and New Port, were marched out to meet General Kirby Smith, who was nine miles off. After an hour's march, Gen. Smith was encountered and the Federal forces were drawn up in line of battle and ordered to fire. When they had fired one round it was discovered that the Confederates had overwhelmed and the entire Federal forces were ordered to fall back. General Smith advancing on them. When the Confederates reached Covington and Newport, Gen. Smith demanded the surrender of both places, which was complied with, he taking possession. On Friday morning at 10:30 a. m., a flag of truce was sent across the river and the surrender of Cincinnati demanded, two hours being allowed for authorities. The Mayor asked four hours which was granted. Gen. Smith in response to inquiries, informed the citizens that private property would be respected but all United States property must be delivered up.

TO THE PUBLIC.
HAVING recovered my health to a considerable extent, and being now able to work, I shall in future, be found at my post, ready to attend to all calls, and will all orders for work executed in the neatest, most fashionable and reasonable manner.
All kinds of

FURNITURE!
BUREAUS, WARDROBES, TABLES, SIDEBOARDS, BOOK CASES, AND THE BEST OF COTTAGE BEDSTEDS

Made on the best plan, mortised tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of developing and blacking beds—beds now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on credit, as he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I should be bound to want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered.
My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs so troublesome in this region.
All kinds of COFFEINS made to order, and furnished promptly—prices as low as those of any Cabinet maker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not setting my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at any other trade.
Jacksonville, July 7, 1860-4f

Land For Sale.
THE undersigned now offers for sale an accommodating farm, his TRACT OF LAND, containing the head Springs of the celebrated Cold Water Creek, 4 miles from Silver Run depot, and 7 from Oxford, containing 550 Acres, about 200 cleared and under fence, with convenient improvements. The soil is good and productive, lies level, and adjacent to good stock range. Cold water creek which runs through the tract affords sufficient water for a Grist or Saw Mill, Cotton Factory or Carving Machine—Cotton Gin & Thrasher, or now running, and inexhaustible quantities of pine timber convenient. There is already a race cut, and he would make it easy to establish any millinery mentioned.
Any person wishing to purchase such a place is invited to call and examine the premises.

Great Excitement in Pennsylvania

—Preparations for the Defense of Harrisburg—Our Army Moving Forward.
The advance of our army into Maryland had produced the greatest excitement along the Pennsylvania Border. A dispatch from Harrisburg says: . . .
The greatest excitement exists throughout York and Adams counties; Pennsylvania, as well as at Harrisburg, and throughout the Susquehanna region and the Cleveland Valley. The rumors were wild and contradictory, but there seemed to be no doubt that the enemy's cavalry had entered York county.—Troops were rapidly concentrating along the line to meet the invader. The farmers were sending their women and children, as well as their cattle away, and were arming for the defense of their homes against any cavalry raids, though they could not resist the enemy if he came in force.

At Harrisburg there were assembled a large force, and hourly increasing. More troops arrived here from New York last night. Regiments have also arrived from Indiana, Vermont, and Massachusetts. While it would be impossible for the people the disposition of the forces for the protection of Harrisburg and its approaches, I may however, say that should the rebels be rash and fool hardy enough to make an attempt to invade this far into Pennsylvania, they will find themselves

The North to be Conquered.

THE WAY THE YANKEES TRY TO KEEP UP THE WAR SPIRIT
AMONG THEIR PEOPLE.

The Yankees are taking a new view of the war. Hayes's Weekly is shaking about the invasion, and says that the Well, fellow-Northerners, they will make their words good, unless we believe in ourselves as heartily as they in themselves. They have ranged their class and their civilization against ours. It is useless to dispute the scope of the contest. Their system must be annihilated or ours must. We must conquer and subdue them utterly or they will absolutely overcome us. After sixteen months of war they are flushed with hope, and confidence; but their purpose is, not retro: ger now than ever. They have always meant conquest of the North.— They hoped it would come by peaceful secession, and then a peaceful surrender of the North under the name of reconstruction. But they believe now that the same practical result can be achieved without separation.

General Bragg.
The Chattanooga Rebel publishes the following notice of the Chattanooga Rebel, written by Gen. Bragg to a friend:

Your grateful favor is received just on the eve of my march in the midst of business and hurry, but I must enjoy the pleasures of thanking you for shedding its one ray of light on my path of toil and trouble. No man in power can, expect to do his duty and escape detrac-on. All mortals are fallible, and I have no doubt my errors are many and great. With a conscientious conviction, however, that my course is right, I shall pursue it; and if at the end of this year, when our independence is secured, an enlightened public judgement shall condemn me after hearing the testimony of those who are now with me, gallantly and nobly defending their colors, as well as those who have basely deserted to their homes to slander and revile their countrymen, I will not shrink from the consequences.

beers, in justification of their dishonor, shall utter no murmur, but endeavor in silence to repent of my errors. In any event, I shall enjoy the consolation of having done something to prevent the moral degradation of our armies and our society.

Had not the reformation of grogshops, gambling houses, &c., commenced by me at Pensacola and Mobile, been approved and enforced by the government, we could not have been able to do it.

10 or 15 Good Mules, To be delivered at Oxford during the present week, for which a liberal price will be given. S. MORGAN. Sep. 11, '62.

Having to be absent on business a great part of the present week, we have only time to say to our readers, that the good news continues to flow in, for which we refer them to our telegraphic columns. The Yankees have been once more whipped, with reported loss of five thousand, this time in Maryland, which they claim as their own territory. They have also evacuated Cumberland Gap. Buell has evacuated Nashville, going down the Cumberland; but as Price and Breckenridge is below him, and Bragg above, he is considered by no means safe. In fact, every portion of the Yankee army seems only intent upon getting off Southern soil as fast as possible, and the Southern armies in all directions are in active pursuit. The tables are completely turned. The North is now in a big luck ague, shaking with fears of invasion, and their lying papers tell the people that it has been the intention of the South to make a conquest all the time. The Yankees have to very sensitive nerves, the one is their fears the other is their pockets—both are suffering exceedingly these times, and it is not unreasonable to hope that this state of things may bring them to their senses, so far as to propose terms of peace.

HARPER'S FERRY seems to be an unlucky place for the John Brownites. Stonewall Jackson has recently captured there 10,000 prisoners, 1,000 negroes, fifty cannon, and a large quantity of ammunition, and stores, without the loss of a single man. The raid upon the South commenced there, and we "Yankees" the cute Yankees think by this time ought to end there.

FREDERICK, MARYLAND, Sep. 8, '62. Mr. J. F. Grant—Dear Sir—I promised to write you occasionally, and as we are lying over this evening and it is said, a Virginian is going to the rear. I write you a few lines. You see we are in the State of Maryland, with our army except the broken down and barefoot crowd, who were left on the other side of the Potomac, and you may depend that comprises a goodly number (73), out of our regt. We have been marching very tight since we set out on this expedition and there was about 2 days, the boys were out of provisions, and they grumbled very much, and I could say but little, for I was so hungry I was sick. You know I am in command of the regt. The Major being sick, and left at Leesburg, I had to take command of the regt. and he will be with us soon. We are now at Frederick, a place larger than Selma or Huntsville. I understand, I have not been into town. This is some 25 miles from Potomac the way we came, and near the junction of Bal. & Ohio R.R. with the Winchester Branch. We took a plenty of Government supplies here—mostly from the Yankee Government—we have great abundance now to eat, Flour, Beef, coffee and soap, and some molasses. Jackson's army now with us near this place, took a great deal to eat at the Potomac. It seems our advance into Maryland, was unknown to any one. On this bank of the Potomac is a canal, and Jackson took 7 or 8 boats loaded with supplies for Washington. Jackson broke the canal and let the water out. To-day we are blowing up a R.R. bridge across the river here. It is an iron one, and the railroad here is double track. Thus Washington is cut off from the West, its great outlet. We are all surprised at the cheapness of everything here—at old prices and even lower, shoes $2, hats $4, bacon 6 cts., and soda 25 cts per pound, molasses, (house made) 50 cts per gallon, &c. &c. This is as pretty a country as you ever saw—immense quantities of flour, and hay and bacon. The farmers are very kind to the boys and give them a great deal to eat, when they get off the road and have time to stop. From all I can learn, we have many friends in this state, particularly the farming class. The ladies cheer us with their handkerchiefs, on the roadside. But this town I believe is Union, and they are sorry to see us, though all seem to admit we will get from 20 to 40,000 volunteers in the State. They say Baltimore is all right. I cannot tell you of course what is the object of this movement, and what point is our destination. This is a bold movement and if successful will confuse the counsels of the enemy. "The battle is not to the strong," and how deeply engaged should our Christian people be for our safety. We have a proud and victorious army—no better was ever brought into the field—South in this sad conflict, and I should feel and cut to pieces by an overwhelming force of our enemy, when shall we recover from it. I with my brave boys follow the flag of the South though it be to a bloody grave, though I can but think our situation may become perilous. The enemy is in our front and rear. I know not the plans of our General, and trust that he knows his own business. I wrote home, about the second great battle of Manassas, you can see that letter. It is now ascertained from Northern papers that we killed five of their Generals, Major-Generals Kearney and Stevens and Brigadiers Taylor, Buford and another. I wrote that 2 of my own boys fell on that field, C. Littlejohn and Jesse Harris. It is also said here Capt. Bush is dead from his wounds.

We have now in the regiment for duty, 363 enlisted men and 18 officers. The man is about to start and I must close. Yours truly, G. C. WHATLEY. CAMP NEAR FREDERICK CITY, Md. Sept. 9th.

Mr. J. F. Grant—Having the opportunity of dropping you a few lines, I will give you a small sketch of the battle fought at Bull Run. We fought there three days 28th, 29th and 30th. It is thought the battle fought on the 30th was the hardest battle ever been fought. I hope I may never experience another such. We were ordered to charge a battery on the 30th, and Capt. Moses Lee was killed in the charge, shot through the heart. James McKinney was killed in the same engagement, shot through head, Columbus Phillips was also killed in the commencement of the same engagement, shot through the breast. We had three wounded—Edward Mathis right arm broken in the elbow. James Brown flesh wound in calf of leg. Sergt. E. F. Rice's right leg left thigh. Our Captain is very much missed by the company and regiment, as he was acting as Major at the time he was killed. He was well beliked by his men, and our Southern Confederacy did not afford a braver man. John Lee's son also died at Hospital, Aug 15th with fever. We, the company do sympathize with Capt. Lee's family, in their bereavement, and may God bless them in their troubled condition. Our privates that were killed were good soldiers and well liked by the company.

We are near Frederick city in Maryland. The Yankees left the city before we got there. There are a great many Lincolns where we are stationed, they appear to be very uneasy. When we come to creeks and rivers, we walk in and ford them like a horse. We have been marching, fighting and under arms twenty-four days. We find plenty to eat in Maryland and a good many of the right kind of people, only a few days ago there was a Union flag floating in Frederick city. It has been taken down and Confederate colors hoisted. Our company is very small at this time—there are a great many sick at the hospital. I must close.

Yours respectfully, LESTER J. B. HEMMANS.

Stonewall Jackson's Strategy.

A correspondent of the Savannah Republican, writing from Leesburg, Virginia, the 5th instant, rehearses some interesting things concerning our operations before the battle of Manassas:

I wrote you last from Liberty Mills, and since that time we have met and whipped the Yankees five times. After the battle of Cedar Run the Yankees fell back to the Rappahannock, at the Warrenton Sulphur Springs, and below in the forks of Rappahannock and Hasel rivers, where our army first came up with them. The principal fighting along there was with artillery. Jackson attempted to cross the river below Jefferson. Early's brigade had got across, and Lawton's brigade had got one regiment (the 13th Georgia) across, when there came on a heavy rain, preventing the rest of the brigade from crossing. The 13th had to stay on the other side all night, and if the Yankees had known it there was nothing in the way of their capturing the whole of them, as Early's brigade was not in supporting distance. The next morning the Thirteenth were ordered to cross back again. Jackson then left the Yankees in the care of Gen. Longstreet, and went up the road about seven miles, crossed over the river, and by forced marches over roundabout roads, got to Bristow Station about four miles below the Manassas Junction, just in time to capture the Yankee trains. We had got within about a mile of the station when we heard the whistle blow—the trains coming up from the Rappahannock. We hurried on in the dark, and when we got to the station we found two engines with empty trains, and were sure that our expedition was a failure, as we understood that the main train had passed on. We ruined the two engines, however; but Jackson had made better arrangements than that. While he sent part of his forces to Bristow Station he went himself to Warrenton Junction, and there stopped the main train, which was about a mile long, loaded with everything that could be called for, and I should judge worth several millions of dollars. Everybody helped himself to whatever he wanted, and the remainder was burnt up.

I was told the first thing Jackson did when he got to the Junction was to awake the Telegraph operator out of his bed and tell him he had no further use for his services. Jackson then sent a dispatch to Washington informing Lincoln that the rebels were whipped and running. He took besides the trains, all the stores at the depot and about a hundred prisoners. Some few got away and carried the news to Washington. There is one thing certain; it was the greatest surprise and the greatest strategic movement of ancient or modern times.

A CANDID ADMISSION.—The N. Y. Times of the 6th, in a leading editorial, makes the following remarkable confession:

It is perfectly idle to conceal the fact that, as we stand to-day, we are beaten, and the same faults which have beaten us hitherto, if continued, will beat us to the end of the chapter. If we persist in the policy thus far pursued; if we have not better generals in the army, and better counsels in the Cabinet, and more vigor, a more high-toned energy, a more resolute and well-aimed determination in the Government, than we have had hitherto; the rebellion will conquer the Government. Jeff. Davis will take Mr. Lincoln's seat, and the Constitution of the Confederacy will replace the Constitution of the United States. But with such a reform, promptly started and vigorously carried out, we can conquer the rebels and restore the ascendancy of the National flag.

LATER FROM NASHVILLE.—A courier, we learn, arrived from within a few miles of Nashville this morning, and brings the news that the city is completely invested by our guerrillas, who are in all the roads. Forrest's force has been increased to six thousand by the citizens, old men and boys joining him.

Buell cannot put out any pickets more than two miles from the city; if he does they are shot. All communication is we infer, cut off between Buell and his government. What he intends to do is yet a matter of doubt. Some think he intends to retreat down the Tennessee river, if he can. Where Gen. Bragg's army is we are not informed, but we feel satisfied it is in the right place.—Chattanooga Rebel With instant.

From the Natchez Courier, Sept. 9. On its last trip to this city, the gunboat Essex made rather a small business in making demands for the "unconditional surrender of Natchez." The whole affair can be summed up in a few words—they came, they demanded, were refused most positively, and they departed with a threat of seeing us again.

The last we heard of the Essex, she passed Baton Rouge with her transport, heading for Bruce Butler's tyrannical kingdom. There it is hoped she will stay, as her officers are fit subjects for our satisfaction. It is thought, by some people, that Butler will soon want all his desperadoes about his person, and none will be more acceptable than the officers of the gunboat Essex.

WE take the following from the Chattanooga Rebel Tuesday: LATEST FROM NASHVILLE.—A gentleman from Shelbyville brings Nashville news up to Friday last. He says that Buell left Nashville some ten days ago with all his forces, except Thomas' Division, in the direction of Bowling Green, but has since returned to Nashville with all his forces, and commenced fortifying the city, having impressed all the negroes in the county of Davidson for that purpose. This gentleman confirms the statement of the difficulty between Johnson and Buell. Well informed persons believe that Buell's fortifying Nashville is a mere ruse, and that he intends to retreat by way of the Tennessee River.

PURE BRITISH.—The London Times calls the Yankees a "mongrel race," and speaks of us as the genuine descendants of Englishmen. We certainly have much more English blood in our veins than the Yankees; or rather English, Scotch, and Welch—that is British blood. Look for instance at this list of Generals taken at random: Lee (English) Johnson (Scottish), Longstreet, Jackson, Jones, Pemberton, Davis, Johnson, Ewell, Penbleton, Early, Garland, Bragg, Smith, Stevens, Mason, Ashby, Hill, Anderson, Whiting Pryor Randolph (English), Stuart, Robertson, Buchanan, Scott, Morgan (Welsh).

Now look at the Yankees. We seem to be copying from the tombstones of Frankfort on the Rhine: Schenke, Steinwehr, Scarp, Seiole, Rosenzanz, Carl, Schuiz, Heintzelman and Blencker.—Richmond Dispatch.

Judge Underwood.

The following anecdote of Judge Underwood, that prince of wits of the Georgia Bench and Bar, which have certainly had no stint of witty men, has been in print before, but will bear repetition.

A gentleman conversing with Judge U., said of a third party: "He is certainly the grandest liar in creation!" The Judge rebuked him, for the severity of his language, but added, with an air of arch gravity, "I will, myself, say of that man, that he does certainly make a more economical use of that little article of truth, than any man I ever did know!" [Countyman.]

The Richmond correspondent of the Charleston Mercury says:

Returned prisoners say the Yankees hold Jackson in greater terror than any other of our generals. Our informant says he heard two Yankees in Alexandria disputing over Jackson's merits; at last, the Jackson man said to the other, exclaimed: "I tell you Jackson is the greatest man in this or any other country. As for our fighting against him it is useless. He made all things uncertain round here, knows everything about everything in this country and he is bound to whip us."

The Panic in Washington.

A gentleman in this city has received a letter from his brother, in Washington, D. C., dated last Tuesday. He says that the greatest commotion and confusion existed among the Government officials on account of the advance of our army, and that they had begun to retreat from the Government buildings in New York all the small arms, cartridges and powder, and that in consequence, work in that department had stopped. Also that gunboats from every where had been ordered to Washington, and that there was a continuous line of them in front of the city, and as far down as Alexandria, Va. The distance, we believe, from is eight miles.—Rich. Dis.

Latest News.

Special to the Savannah Republican.

KNOXVILLE, Sept. 14. A courier from Gen. Kirby Smith arrived this morning from Lexington, Ky. He left on the 6th inst., and brings the following interesting intelligence.

The Confederate army had reached Covington as was announced some days ago, on the authority of a Cairo extra. It is now moving forward in that direction, and the people of Kentucky are rising en masse and joining the Confederate cause. Three thousand men were recruited in the short time of 21 hours, and Gen. Smith has made a requisition for twenty thousand additional stand of arms.

Ten Regiments of Kentuckians were being raised under Gen. A. Buford. Gen. Smith entered Lexington, in triumph on the 1st inst. The people from the surrounding country rushed to meet him, and they were poured into town throughout the day, and manifested the greatest demonstration of delight at their deliverance from the yoke of an abolition oppressor. The ladies wept for joy and in gratitude to their deliverers.

Col. John Morgan arrived in Lexington on the 4th inst., and was received with boundless enthusiasm. Col. Scott's La. Cavalry captured Frankfort, the seat of government of Kentucky, on the 3rd inst., and planted their battle-flag on the dome of the State House. The streets were thronged with men and women from the country and a grand ovation was kept up throughout the day.

The enemy took time by the forelock and evacuated the place on the night of the 2d. Our troops went in pursuit of them next morning, and sent back a number of prisoners and three hundred mules. It was reported that Scott had overtaken their rear and would capture the entire train together with a vast amount of property.

The Lexington, Ky., Statesman of the 6th inst. contains a sterling address from Gen. Smith. Gens. Buford and Humphrey Marshall were to have reached Paris on the night of the 6th and camped on Marshall's own farm.

Do Causi's brigade of Federals left the north side of Cumberland Gap on the 11th, with a large number of wagons on a foraging expedition.

A skirmish occurred with the enemy on the 12th at Baptist Gap, three miles from Cumberland Gap. No particulars are given except that the enemy were driven back.

Richmond, Sept. 16. In the Senate to-day the Exemption bill was further considered; and a clause from the Judiciary committee, reported a bill to declare certain persons alien enemies. It provides that the President issue his proclamation requiring all persons within the Confederate States who refuse to support this Government, to depart within 40 days beyond the territory and jurisdiction of the Confederate States: Provided, that if any of the said persons shall, during the 40 days, abandon the Government of the United States, and renounce their allegiance thereto, &c., he shall be relieved from the penalty against alien enemies.

The Military exemption bill was further considered, and the constitutional question which has been discussed for several days, disposed, by adoption of an amendment, excepting from exemption, such State officers as the several States may have declared by law, to be liable to military duty.

A new amendment to exempt one editor of a newspaper was reported. A motion to strike out ministers of the Gospel was negatived—yeas 5, nays 17.

In the House a resolution from the Senate, fixing the 30th day of September as the day for adjournment of Congress, was a yeed to, and the Conscription bill was further discussed.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The Examiner has received Northern dates to the 14th. The Herald says the rebel camp at Frederick city was broken up Friday and the army marched to Hagerstown, preparing to march on Chambersburg. Pa. It also says the rebels have retreated from their position in Kentucky, and are now in the mountains round here, knows everything about everything in this country and he is bound to whip us."

The Chronicle of the 14th says Gen. Lee made an attack on Harper's Ferry, and was repulsed with great slaughter, and that the attack was renewed the next day with the same result. The excitement at Harrisburg and Philadelphia was increasing. The Chronicle also reports that 40,000 rebels, under Beauregard, left Richmond on Tuesday to reinforce Lee, and that New Orleans is threatened by a considerable force under Breckenridge and Van Dorn.

In New York on Friday stocks declined a fourth to one per cent. U. S. 6s quoted at 119 1/2. Exchange 134 1/2. Liverpool dates to the 4th received—news unimportant—breadstuffs declined—cotton advanced 2 3/4 since 9th August.

MOBILE, Sept. 16.

A special to the Evening News from Tupelo to day, says Gen. Price's army moved from Baldwin, Miss., on Friday last on a forced march. A messenger just arrived, reports that Saturday afternoon our advance guard, under Gen. Armstrong, surprised and attacked the Yankees, 6,000 strong, at Iuka, driving them out of the town and taking 2,000 prisoners. Gen. Price with the main body, came up Sunday morning. The enemy fled in the direction of Eastport, leaving in our hands 10,000 worth of stores principally flour and salt.

Gen. Price gave chase, and when last heard from, seven miles behind the enemy.

Richmond, Sept. 17.—In the House to-day, Mr. Foote introduced a resolution proposing to send a Commissioner or a Commission, to Washington, empowered to propose terms of a just and honorable peace.

Mr. Holt of Georgia a substitute, declaring that the people of the Confederate States have ardently desired peace from the beginning; and whenever the U. S. Government shall manifest a like anxiety, it shall be the duty of the President to appoint Commissioners to treat and negotiate with said Government.—The resolution and substitute were tabled, yeas 59, nays 26.

SECOND DISPATCH.

An official dispatch from Gen. Loring dated Charleston Kannauba county Va., says: "After incessant skirmishing we took this place at 3 P. M. The enemy six regiments strong made a stout resistance, burning their stores and most of the town in their retreat. Our loss slight—the enemy's heavy, and is in full retreat. Gen. Jenkins is in his rear."

Richmond Sept. 17.—Official dispatches from Chattanooga confirm the occupation of Iuka by Gen. Price's army, and the capture of several hundred thousand dollars worth of artillery and stores.

Private dispatches from Staunton to-day say that the Yankee forces at Harper's Ferry were taken by Jackson on the 15th instant, consisting of 8,000 Yankees and 1,000 negroes.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The Secretary of War received a dispatch to-day from Maj. Brown commanding the post at Dublin Pataki county, (on the Va. & Tenn. Railroad) stating Gen. Loring's command entered the Kanawha Salines on last Saturday morning and took possession of the Salt Works closely pursuing the enemy en route for Charleston.

The Salt Works are not much injured and a very large quantity of salt is on hand, which Gen. Loring is selling at 35 cents per bushel. An order has been issued urging the farmers to forward their wagons to the headquarters of Gen. Loring at the works loaded with forage and then return home with salt.

THIRD DISPATCH. In the Senate to-day the Exemption bill was further considered; and a clause exempting tanners, shoe-makers and millers was agreed to; also a clause exempting Quakers and Dunkards, and another exempting physicians. A clause exempting Theological students was stricken. An amendment to exempt overseers of plantations was pending.

From the Southern Confederacy. Richmond, Sept. 18.—The report of the fight at Harper's Ferry and the capture of 8,000 prisoners is confirmed.

On Sunday Gen. D. H. Hill was attacked in Maryland with 80,000 men. The fight continued all day, with heavy loss on both sides. On Monday Hill was reinforced by Longstreet. The battle was renewed, and the enemy driven back three miles. Gen. Garnett, of Va., was killed in Sunday's fight. His body arrived this afternoon.

CAMP MOORE, LA., Sept. 17 via Montgomery, Ala. 18.—The Yankees, 200 strong, came up the railroad to Ponchitouta on Monday, and burnt seven or eight cars. The Yankees lost five or six killed and about the same number wounded, and a few prisoners. Our loss was one killed and a few wounded.

MOBILE, Sept. 18.—A special dispatch to the advertiser from the 16th, says: This morning, on Sunday, the Yankees, 200 strong, came up the railroad to Ponchitouta on Monday, and burnt seven or eight cars. The Yankees lost five or six killed and about the same number wounded, and a few prisoners. Our loss was one killed and a few wounded.

Our forces arrived in time to save the town from destruction. The citizens were found with their household goods cut off doors, awaiting the application of the torch by the vandals.

The enemy on rid of 200 negroes—of which were re-captured by our scouts. Twelve houses and three mills were destroyed on the line of their march from Marietta to Iuka. They retreated in the direction of Corinth.

They made a demonstration on our lines last night—it is believed as a feint to cover their retreat. They are crossing the Tennessee river at Hamburg.

The Chicago Times of the 15th instant says, "Stonewall Jackson left Baltimore and Washington to the right, and is marching on Harrisburg. His cavalry advance is on every road, creating consternation, it not being known upon what point he will make a demonstration."

Gov. Curtin has called on the Mayor of Philadelphia to furnish 20,000 men in twelve hours, for the defense of the city.

The hour of retaliation has come.

Special Dispatch to the Southern Confederacy. Knoxville, Sept. 19.—Official information has been received of the evacuation of Cumberland Gap by the enemy, night before last. The enemy has gone Northward on the Harlem road. Our troops now have possession of the Gap.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 19.—The enemy have again evacuated Nashville—this time going down the Cumberland river. Their occupation of Clarksville and Fort Donelson was for the purpose of securing this route of retreat.

The tone and appearance of the Nashville papers indicate the apprehension of the speedy occupation of the place by the Confederates.

The train on the Nashville road started for Tallahoma, 80 miles from here, to-day.

Richmond, Sept. 19.—In the Senate the House bill to provide for the payment of troops raised in Missouri by Gen. Price, passed.

The Exemption bill was further considered.

The House passed a bill fixing the rank and pay of Adjutants of independent battalions; also adopted a resolution to send to Major General Mansfield and command.

Mr. Foote, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported back a resolution in relation to the conduct of the war and navigation of the Western rivers, with modifications. Mr. Barksdale, of Miss., presented a minority report. Both reports were ordered to be printed.

SECOND DISPATCH.

Gov. Letcher has received letters to-day from Winchester the 10th, confirming the report of the unconditional surrender of ten thousand Yankees at Harper's Ferry, on Monday, without the loss of one man on our side. Gen. Jackson captured fifty pieces of artillery, with ammunition, stores, &c. The letters also mention an engagement in Maryland between Boonsboro and Middletown, in which the enemy were repulsed with reported loss of 500 horses killed and wounded. Confederate loss heavy. No further particulars received.

TO THE PUBLIC.
HAVING recovered my health to a considerable extent, and being now able to work, I shall in future be found at my post, ready to attend to all calls, and if all orders for work, executed in the most exact, fashionable and durable manner.
All kinds of
FURNITURE, BUREAUS,
WARDROBES, TABLES,
SIDEBOARDS,
BOOK CASES, AND THE BEST OF
COTTAGE BEDSTEDS
Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of doing up and blacking bedsteads now in use. So long in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he has plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work for me. My experience in business enables me to make the best bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs, so troublesome in this region.
All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and funerals attended, promptly—prices as low as any of any Cabinet maker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and working at the trade for a living. I am not setting my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at any other trade.

OXFORD HOTEL.
THE undersigned respectfully informs the public that he has opened a HOUSE OF ENTERTAINMENT, in Oxford, Calhoun County, Ala. About seventy yards north-west of the railroad depot. He will be at all times prepared to entertain travellers, and accommodate permanent boarders with the best the market of the country affords, at reasonable rates. He hopes by strict attention to the comforts and wants of customers to merit and receive a liberal share of public patronage.
W. B. TURNER-SEED.
March 13, 1862-ly.

Land for Sale.
THE undersigned now offers for sale on accommodating terms, his TRACT OF LAND, containing the head Springs of the celebrated Cold Water Creek, 4 miles from Silver Run depot, and 7 from Oxford, containing 550 Acres about 200 cleared and under fence, with convenient improvements. The soil is good and productive, the level, and adjacent to good stock range. Cold water creek which runs through the tract affords sufficient water for a Grist or Saw Mill, Cotton Factory or Carding Machine—a Cotton Gin and Thrasher now running, and inexhaustible quantities of pine timber convenient. There is already a rice cut, which would make it easy to establish any mill heretofore mentioned.
Any person wishing to purchase such a place is invited to call and examine the land.

Highly Important!
I have got my machinery so constructed now, that I can card Cotton or Wool. Ten cents will pay for an amount of Cotton-carded on the machine, which would require a hand to card two days by hand. Cotton should not be washed. The washers should be greased by the owners.
